

For Scientific Libraries, the most important thing to keep in mind is that they are compiler or languages dependent and are sometimes integrated in the language.

When the library is not directly embedded in the compiler, do not forget to create a link when compiling the source code (Example: `-lm librarylink...`)