Student will be tested on the following skills:
- Edit, Compile, and run an advanced MPI code (complex computation requiring more resources) in a high level language such as C, C++ or python
- Analyze and debug a code based on the output
- Modify, Rescale, and go through the first 2 steps above
- Use profiling techniques to examine how the resources and communication traffic between processes affect the execution time.